The Violence Against Women Task Force was established to be a consistent voice opposed to violent crimes against Indian women and to ensure that conditions improve for safety in Indian communities. This session of the task force will focus on current legislation that would increase the safety of Indian women, emerging issues concerning implementation of the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) and the lessons that tribes are learning to make their communities a safer place. This meeting will be a discussion where all people are encouraged to participate in the conversation.
