

NCAI is your home away from home. When conducting business in Washington, D.C., our offices can provide tribal leaders and representatives with a central working location. Our ability to house other related tribal organizations will strengthen our coordination and advocacy work on critical issues facing Indian Country.

Founded in 1944, the National Congress of American Indians is the oldest, largest and most representative American Indian and Alaska Native organization in the country. NCAI advocates on behalf of more than 250 tribal governments, promoting strong tribal-federal government-to-government policies, and promoting a better understanding among the general public regarding American Indian and Alaska Native governments, people and rights. Establishing a Permanent Home For National Congress of American Indians & Tribal Organizations

Let's Make Our Founding Members' Dream Our Vision

Challenge

NCAI has long envisioned establishing an “Embassy of Tribal Nations” and creating a permanent home for NCAI and other tribal organizations in Washington, D.C. Rental rates are continuing to escalate in the Washington, D.C. area and the annual operating costs for NCAI to lease a building are rising.

The Capital Campaign - Our Goal

In 2004, following a professional feasibility analysis, the NCAI Board made an important decision to embark on a Capital Campaign to purchase a building for NCAI.

NCAI has established a separate Capital Campaign Reserve Fund account. The funds raised will be used to purchase a building once we reach an initial amount of $2.0 million. Our goal is to raise a total $12 million over the next 3 years.

Why Indian Country Should Care

Owning a home in Washington, D.C. will benefit NCAI and Indian tribes in many ways, including:

- Enhancing the presence of tribal sovereign nations in Washington D.C.
- Increasing public awareness of NCAI and tribal governments
- Improving the efficiency and work environment of NCAI operations and activities
- Housing and better coordinating with our sister organizations
- Increasing the value, long-term equity and stability of NCAI assets
- Solidifying long-term investment and savings for NCAI

Making the Vision a Reality: How You Can Assist!

You can make a difference – regardless of the amount of your donation. All contributions will help. We will appropriately recognize all those who contribute. The Board will also provide special recognition to major gift donors.
