2020 CENSUS TOOLKIT
Updated June 2019

Why is the Census important?

The Census is a powerful tool that allows the federal government to collect data about the American Indian and Alaska Native population. This information helps to ensure that communities receive the resources and funding they need to thrive. The Census also helps to improve the accuracy of the Roll Indian Response Initiative, which is a program that helps to improve the accuracy of the Roll Indian Response Initiative.

How to Be Counted as an American Indian

Being counted as an American Indian is important for several reasons. First, it helps to ensure that American Indians receive the resources and funding they need to thrive. Second, it helps to improve the accuracy of the Roll Indian Response Initiative. Finally, it helps to improve the accuracy of the Census.

How to Be Counted as an Alaska Native

Being counted as an Alaska Native is important for several reasons. First, it helps to ensure that Alaska Natives receive the resources and funding they need to thrive. Second, it helps to improve the accuracy of the Roll Indian Response Initiative. Finally, it helps to improve the accuracy of the Census.

List Your Enrolled Tribe

Pretty simple.

There’s a pretty simple way to list your tribe. Just enter your enrolled tribe’s name in the “tribes or groups” section of the Roll Indian Response Initiative.

A Word of Thanks

As we approach the Census, we are grateful to everyone who is working to ensure that American Indians and Alaska Natives are counted accurately. We encourage you to participate in the Roll Indian Response Initiative and to share information about the Census with your community.
