The purpose of this update is to share publicly available data and trends related to the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic in Indian Country. The NCAI Policy Research Center views updates on various public sites in the early morning each day and records available data. The data shared in this update represents what has been shared publicly by the sources described below, and the NCAI Policy Research Center is not analyzing the primary sources of data. This update represents data posted at the time of viewing, and data may change during the course of the day or may otherwise need to be updated.

In reviewing this data, it is important to understand that current COVID-19 data is likely an underestimate of the actual data due to current lack of adequate testing availability. Tribal nations are encouraged to conduct their own surveillance locally in partnership with local, county, state and federal agencies.

INDIAN HEALTH SERVICE (IHS) AREA DATA

Total COVID-19 Cases in Indian Country

The primary public source of federal data on COVID-19 cases in American Indians and Alaska Natives (AI/ANs) is the Indian Health Service (IHS) Coronavirus (COVID-19) website located at the following link: https://www.ihs.gov/coronavirus/. On this website, total COVID-19 cases are recorded daily as well as total cases in each IHS Area.

The NCAI Policy Research Center has tracked these case numbers daily since March 23, 2020. Using these numbers, we created graphs for each IHS Area. In all IHS Areas, total cases continue to increase. These graphs are included on the next pages. When downward corrections in total cases were made, likely due to reclassification by location or an error, we denote the days with corrections with dotted lines on the graph. Flat areas of the curves are when cases did not increase for that day. The most recent two values are included to show the increase from yesterday to today.
