

NINTH ANNUAL American Indian / Indigenous Teacher Education Conference (AIITEC)

June 21-23, 2018

Honoring Our Communities

Northern Arizona University
College of Education
Flagstaff, Arizona

Northern Arizona University's College of Education has worked with Indian Nations to improve the education of American Indian students for decades. It has hosted a variety of American Indian teacher and administrative preparation programs, including the well-received Learn In Beauty program, and published a number of monographs, including Honoring Our Children: Culturally Appropriate Approaches for Teaching Indigenous Students and Honoring Our Elders: Culturally Appropriate Approaches for Teaching Indigenous Students. Drs. Joseph Martin and W. Sakiestewa Gilbert, who have been long involved in working to improve Indian education, are co-chairing the conference.

Keynote Speakers

Sharon Nelson-Barber at West Ed and Nadine Groenig, Director of Indian Education at Arizona Department of Education, "Educating American Indian Students: Communicating, Caring, Connecting"

Lily Wong Fillmore, UC Berkeley and Elaine Kasch, Flagstaff Unified School District, "Promoting the Educational Success of English Learners on Tribal Lands"
